Geographical Categorization of B Schools

Geographical Categorization of B Schools

With MBA being the most sought after degree by aspirants all over the country, B Schools are sprawling at a very rapid rate to meet the ever-rising demands of the young Indian populace. The primary and secondary education of India has got a worldwide recognition for its quality and deliverance. However, the higher education in India is still under a lot of scrutiny for not delivering employable graduates. Management Institutes have the whole sole target to produce efficient industry ready professionals. In fact, when the students look for B Schools, the very first thing that catch their eyes is the phrase '100% Placement Guaranteed' written in bold. This is the only thing that sells a B School. Their credibility to their stakeholders is established only if they live up to this one promise.

Accessibility of a B School

Education takes a front seat for everyone in this country and people do not deter from traveling to faraway lands in the quest for quality education that gives them a good standing in the society. However, if good management institutes are available within the same city or state, it eases out some financial and emotional burden of the students as well as their parents. The increasing campuses in every nook and corner of the country have made management education accessible to the majority of the MBA aspirants.

Location of a B School

The location of a B School plays an important role in the success of a B School. A B School located in major cities like Delhi, Mumbai, Bangalore and Chennai enjoys the proximity of the thriving industries around them. The mainstay of the management education is corporate relations which becomes easy for these institutes. These are the hub of business and the students can experience the industrial growth right in front of their eyes. Then there are places like Ahmedabad, Pune, Kolkata, Jamshedpur who are known for the premier institutes that have their own benchmark in the education industry. There are a many evolving locations like Raipur, Indore, Bhopal, Manipal, who in spite of being remote locations, are proving to be home for some of the notable management institutes like Manipal University, EIIILM University etc.

Post Recession Job Market in India

Looking at the post recession phase of Indian job market, each and every sector is experiencing unprecedented growth with a promise of job creation like never before. As traditional framework of running businesses give way to organized business practices, each industrial sector is streamlining their operational processes and maximizing their manpower to the fullest. India is a vast nation with a lot of diversities. And when we say diversities we are not only talking about the cultural diversities, but also the other dimension of it which include the diverse industrial sectors that are going through remarkable growth. It is really difficult to demarcate these opportunities on the basis of their geographical boundaries. If Delhi and Mumbai are the business hubs of India, Bangalore, Chennai and Hyderabad are known for their notable contribution in the IT sector. Similarly, Bhubaneshwar, Jamshedpur and Bhilai have an undeterred stature in the manufacturing sector.

An international recruitment firm, Antal conducted a survey over more than 6000 organizations in over 30 countries to study their recruitment status. The survey revealed that 71% of Indian companies are currently recruiting and they plan to increase their hiring activity even more and 78% of them are expecting to hire managerial staff over the next three months. Combined with a very low rate of lay offs (16% and set to drop by a further 3%) the results indicate a strong employment market which is improving all the time. Manufacturing and auto sectors along with the traditional IT, FMCG, Pharmaceutical companies had ramped up hiring, as against what they have witnessed in their previous survey. Increased hiring indicated that the need for exceptional talent was now ever more. Apart from these sectors, agriculture, forestry and fisheries sectors employ the largest workforce in the country, according to a government survey for 2009-10 fiscal. The survey said the unemployment rate in India during this period was estimated at 9.4 per cent. According to the national-level household survey conducted by Labour Bureau, 89 people were employed in the manufacturing sector, 88 in the wholesale and retail trade, 84 people in community services and 75 in construction sector. All these are evolving sector and present a plethora of job opportunities for efficient professionally qualified individuals.

In our Geographical Categorization of B Schools, we have tried to present a comprehensive list of the Best B School in every region for an easy selection for the students.
